

Live the life of Swiss Family Robinson in your own Tree House!

Built by Battle Ridge Construction, this fabulous Playhouse takes fun to new heights. Built with reclaimed lumber and finished with carefully fashioned twig trim, this playhouse looks like it sprouted from a tree—and it fact is has! The base is a large stump from salvaged construction materials.

Repurposing construction materials makes this Tree House green in more ways than one.

"The Tree House"

About the Builder

Battle Ridge Construction (BRC) personifies diversity. They have the proper knowledge, manpower & experience to build any structure including barns, storage buildings, traditional single family dwellings and the finest of custom homes. BRC employs a tremendous group of skilled carpenters & craftsmen who take pride in their work. As demonstrated in BRC's playhouse, they are proficient at working with natural materials such as logs and timbers. They are also proficient with traditional building materials & work with and study the latest technological advances our industry has to offer. Entries being accepted now!

BRC relishes the opportunity of design involvement. If a client has not engaged professional services, Battle Ridge can assist with suitable recommendations. BRC's office staff has the ability to assemble timely estimates, forecasting cost upon completion during schematic design, which provides time for value engineering, if necessary. Either way, BRC's team places themselves in the homeowner's shoes, offering insight and suggestions during construction & is pleased to price options for finish or whatever else may be asked of them. Their ultimate goal is complete customer satisfaction!
